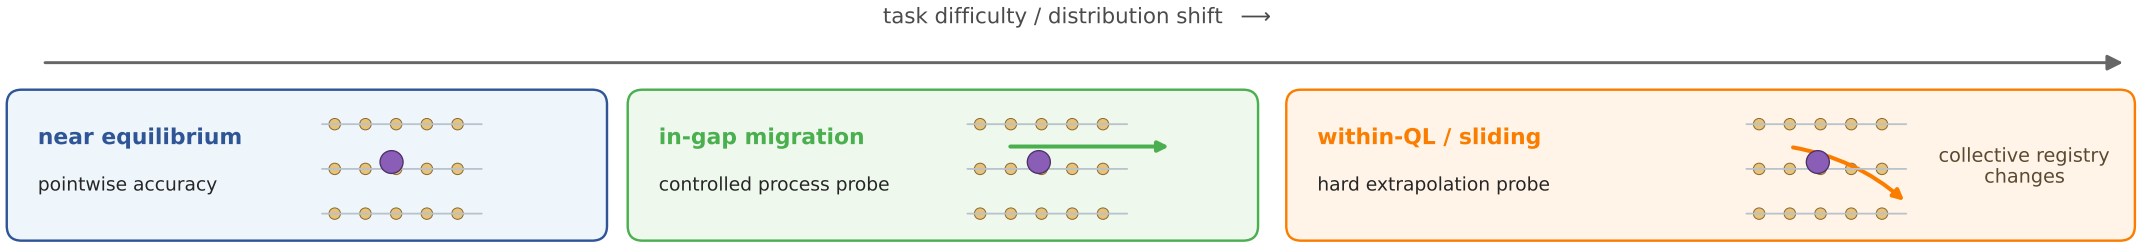
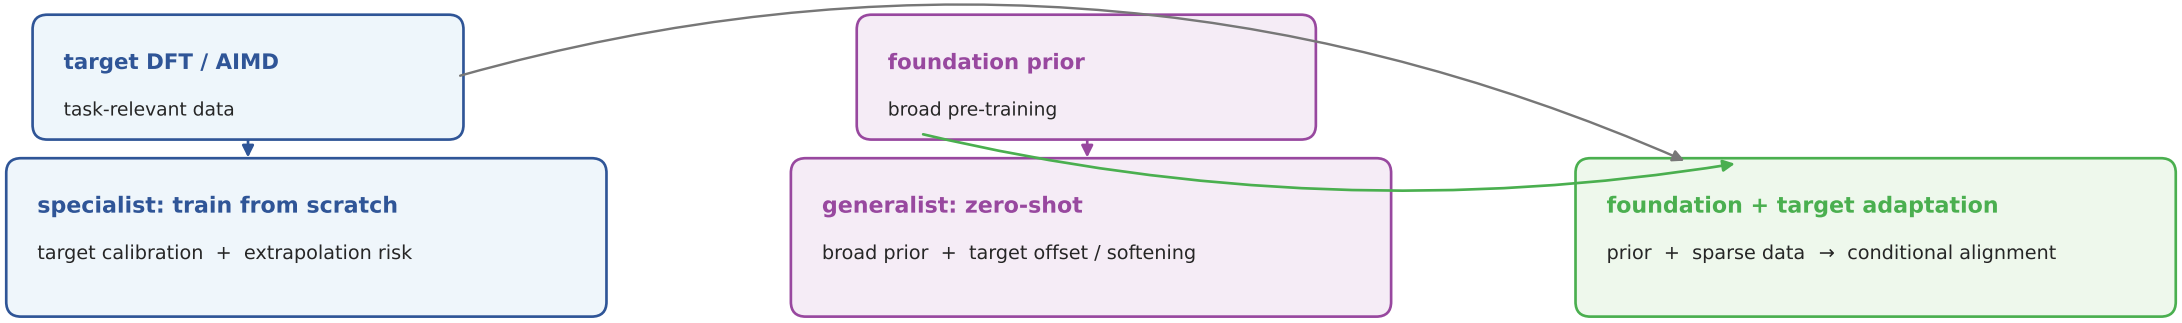
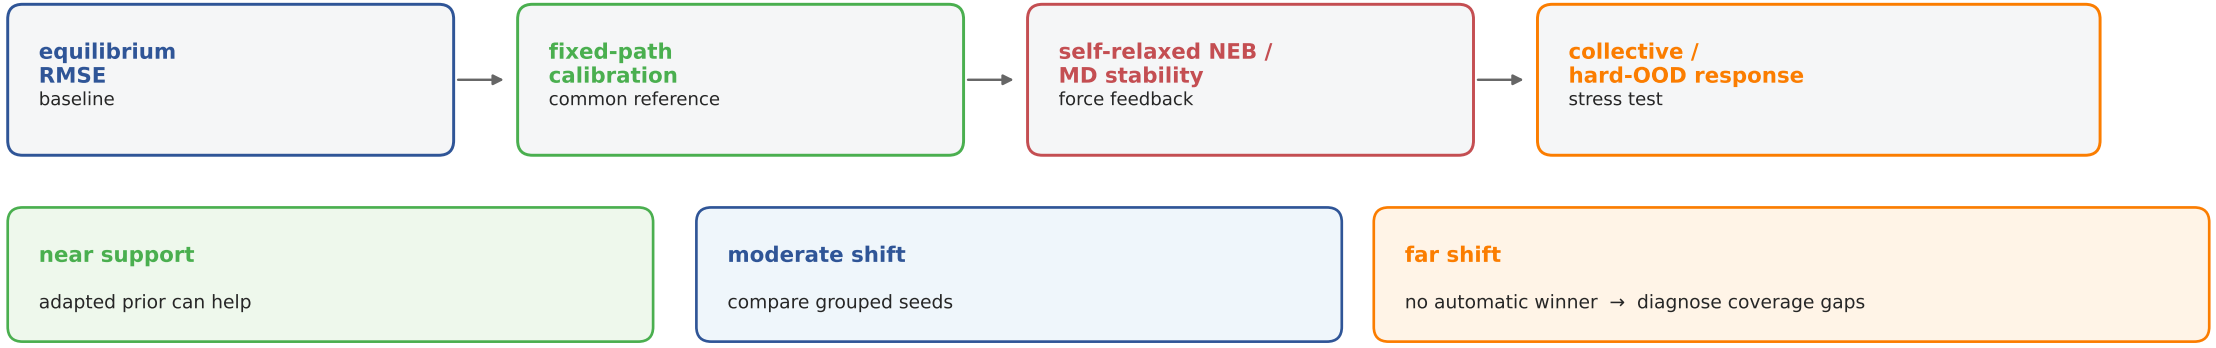
(a) Target process defines the relevant distribution

The same material contains tasks with increasing distance from the training support



(b) Model routes encode different priors and calibration risks



(c) Shared evaluation criteria produce a task-conditioned decision


A model can pass one task and fail another.